SD Venture Group's May 22 Event to Discuss How Angel Investing is Done

- Speaker lineup includes noted investors, entrepreneurs -

SAN DIEGO – May 14, 2014 – The San Diego Venture Group will hold its "Angel Investors – Do You Have a Prayer?" breakfast event on May 22.

The speaker lineup will include noted investors and entrepreneurs, with the program designed to assist those seeking such funding for their company.

"We'll share our nine rules for raising angel financing to help folks looking for such investment capital to launch their business," said David Titus, President of the San Diego Venture Group. "Entrepreneurs should not miss this meeting!"

The scheduled panelists are:

• Jeff Draa, President, Tech Coast Angels, the second most active angel investing network in the country. Hear how they source, analyze and negotiate deals.

• Adam Harris, CEO, CloudBeds, who has raised more than $1.5 million in angel financing from industry insiders. Learn from him on how to find, cultivate and close a network of industry insiders to support a business.

• Dave Karlman, DePrima Ventures, an experienced and active angel investor in both high tech and life science companies. Some of his investments include Cashie Commerce and Otologic Pharmaceuticals. Dave will share his secrets from "the other side of the table" on what works and what doesn't when approaching angel investors.

• Kian Saneii, CEO, Independa, who raised his money from a variety of investors in both San Diego and elsewhere. Hear how he identified and pitched his angels.
